REPORT OF GRANTS
May 2016 – April 2017

1825 K STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON, DC 20006

THE MORRIS AND GWENDOLYN CAFTRITZ FOUNDATION

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

The Morris and Gwendolyn Cafritz Foundation is pleased to report on our Fiscal Year 2016–2017. Last year, the Foundation awarded more than $18 million in grants to 409 nonprofit organizations in the Washington metropolitan area.

Throughout its history, the Foundation has encouraged organizations to work together to expand their reach and complement each other so as to improve the lives of Washington, DC Metropolitan area residents. A number of capital grants were approved to help grantees leverage government dollars and opportunities. This year, we would like to highlight some remarkable initiatives developed through collaborative efforts.

In Virginia, the Foundation provided support to Aspire! Afterschool Learning to build out the third floor of the Arlington Mill Community Center. This will serve as Aspire!'s new program space and headquarters in a public building and allow the organization to increase the number of students it serves each year. The expansion is very timely, as the demand for afterschool programs for challenged students in Arlington is greater than services can meet. In addition, schools are referring more of these students to Aspire! for extra assistance, with a remarkable 80 percent of this group deemed eligible for special services and support.

In Maryland, the Montgomery County Executive and the Council selected Gandhi Brigade to move into the lower level of the new Montgomery County Public Library in Silver Spring. The 3,000-square-foot space will include a digital media lab, teen lounge and production room. Since its founding, Gandhi Brigade has trained middle and high school students in digital media skills, including videography, editing, music creation and graphic design. With the larger library space, Gandhi Brigade will expand to serve a more diverse audience.

In addition to physical spaces, nonprofit organizations work in collaboration with government agencies to identify needs and strategies, increase resources, and promote leadership development. First-time Cafritz grantees Gearin' Up Bicycles and Arcadia Center for Sustainable Food and Agriculture exemplify these types of partnerships. Gearin' Up Bicycles collaborates with the University of Maryland and the DC Department of Transportation to identify abandoned bicycles and keep them out of local landfills. They refurbish unwanted bikes and offer young people job training in bicycle repair and maintenance.

Arcadia Center for Sustainable Food and Agriculture counts the Department of Defense as one of its significant partners. Arcadia's Veteran Farmer Program is a multi-layered educational program that trains returning veterans to farm, helps them find affordable land, provides access to markets to sell the produce they grow, while also creating a more equitable food system. The produce grown on the farm is taken to neighborhoods that do not have access to supermarkets or farmers' markets. This provides low-income families and communities access to fresh, nutritious food.

Another first time grantee is Farming 4 Hunger (F4H). Since 2012, this nonprofit has grown and delivered fresh food to low-income communities in southern Maryland, Anne Arundel and Prince George's Counties. In 2016, it delivered nearly 1.5 million pounds of food to organizations addressing hunger.

Another example of a public-private partnership is the relationship F4H has with the Maryland Department of Corrections. Inmates are brought to the farm six days a week for eight-hour shifts. The men learn to grow, harvest and deliver the food. In addition to the opportunity to learn new skills, the participants receive help with job searches, assistance in obtaining driver's licenses and chances to interact and connect with individuals who volunteer on the farm, or students on field trips. The farm initiatives have assisted more than 80 prisoners from the Southern Maryland Pre-Release Facility. According to the Justice Policy Institute, recidivism for returning residents in Maryland is 40 percent; the recidivism rate is zero for the men who have spent time at the farm.

Since its inception, the Foundation has supported the development of talented public leaders, by funding George Washington University's Center for Excellence in Public Leadership (CEPL) which provides programs and services to strengthen the leadership and management capacity of municipal leaders in DC and the surrounding region. CEPL works with the DC Department of Human Resources, individual government agencies, and Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments to assist seasoned managers and emerging leaders in solving current city and regional issues, while creating a network for sharing resources, knowledge and lessons learned.

Partnerships between grantee organizations often result in greater access to services or an exceptional opportunity. A collaboration between Cafritz Foundation grantees Step Afrika!, the Phillips Collection and Washington Performing Arts, allowed Step Afrika! to present its critically acclaimed dance piece, The Migration – which interpreted all 60 panels of Jacob Lawrence's Migration Series. The piece has gone on to tour in Detroit and New York City. In June 2016, following this success, the Smithsonian invited Step Afrika! to create a feature exhibit for the cultural section of the National Museum of African American History and Culture.

In addition to encouraging and fostering partnerships among nonprofit organizations, the Foundation plays an active role in working with other funders, as well. The Chesapeake Bay Funders Network brings together a coalition of 30 private foundations in the region. The Foundation has supported the Networks' Capacity Building Initiative since its inception in 2006.

Coordinated by the Chesapeake Bay Trust, the Capacity Building Initiative, which has become a national model, uses pooled dollars from funders to focus specifically on helping groups of environmental nonprofits develop operational infrastructure for fundraising, board development, financial management, communications and strategic planning. This year, the Initiative focused on a new effort: building the capacity of networks. A network of more than 20 organizations, comprised of environmental and other nonprofits, the business community and neighborhood organizations, agreed to work together to build and strengthen the economic and social resources in DC's Wards 7 and 8.

The Foundation also joined other funding partners this year to help create the DC Family Planning Initiative (DC-FPI), housed at the Washington Area Women's Foundation. Led by a coalition of health care providers, nonprofit organizations, government partners and foundations, the DC-FPI is a partnership working to improve access to reproductive health services for teens and young women across DC. Along with services, this effort will track important social factors that affect health, such as education and income levels.

In addition, the Foundation was able to assist with a partnership that was forged out of a tragedy.

In August 2016, an explosion and fire at the Flower Branch Apartment complex in Silver Spring, Maryland leveled two buildings, resulting in the death of seven individuals, many injuries and displacement of 55 households. This horrible event brought together Casa de Maryland, Mary's Center, Montgomery Housing Partnership and the foundation community to work with Montgomery County government and the Red Cross to help find temporary and permanent safe housing, case management and trauma care. The nonprofits already knew each other, and were able to act quickly and cooperatively to respond and assist the individuals and the families in this time of critical need.

Grants to “intermediary” organizations provide additional types of supportive partners and networks. Long-time Cafritz grantee, Local Initiatives Support Collaborative (LISC) is an example. As an intermediary, LISC frequently assumes the role of facilitator and technical assistance provider.

This year, the local LISC office, LISC DC, launched the Elevating Equity Initiative (EEI) focused on low-income DC households in the neighborhoods within a one-mile radius of Anacostia Park. These neighborhoods include Capitol Hill and Navy Yard on the west side of the Anacostia River and Anacostia, Fairlawn and Hillsdale on the east side of the river. The national LISC office made a $50 million commitment to provide loans, grants, tax credit equity, in-kind and technical services to nonprofits undertaking projects, programs and activities that help long-term residents and newcomers to these DC neighborhoods. LISC DC convenes work sessions with neighborhood residents, policy experts, city officials, business owners and others to create a plan and implement strategy.

LISC DC has also been a key partner of Cafritz grantee Martha's Table to move its headquarters east of the Anacostia River. Now relocated in the Hillsdale Neighborhood, the 40,000-square-foot facility will open in 2018 and house an early education center, an industrial kitchen, two playgrounds, and an outdoor garden. LISC DC worked closely with Martha's Table to carry out a comprehensive analysis of the surrounding neighborhood to assess the need for the organization's services and to determine whether it would be welcomed by the community.

Last of all, we would like to recognize the long-standing partnership between the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum and the Anti-Defamation League for the creation of the Law Enforcement and Society (LEAS) program. Encouraging and supporting nonprofit organizations to work in concert, and with government entities has always been important to the Foundation.

More than 20 years ago, this public-private partnership received a grant from the Foundation to develop an educational program with, and initially for, the District of Columbia Metropolitan Police Department.

The intent of the program is to help law enforcement officers recognize the peril of excessive police power while trying to protect and maintain the core values in a democratic society. The LEAS program is especially meaningful now, in light of current national conversations about public trust in law enforcement and the potential for abuse of power. More than 90,000 law enforcement officials from local police departments and 18 federal agencies have participated in the program. Some agencies have made it a mandatory component of their new recruit or in-service training.

In closing, I would like to thank the members of the Board of Directors and Advisory Board, whose commitment to our region and to the Foundation is inspiring and commendable. I want to recognize our staff for their hard work and dedication to our grantee organizations and communities served.

The Morris and Gwendolyn Cafritz Foundation was incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia in 1948. The Foundation awards grants only to charitable, educational and cultural institutions exempt from taxation under the Internal Revenue Code. The general policy is to concentrate grants to organizations operating within the Greater Washington Metropolitan Area, with projects of direct assistance to the District of Columbia and its environs. Grants generally are not made for capital purposes, endowments or to individuals. Support for projects will be limited as to time, and it is not the general policy to commit for more than one year at a time.

Detailed information about the application process is available from the Foundation by telephone or through the website. To submit an application, please go to www.cafritzfoundation.org.
